From the Editor

AS PROMISED in our last issue, some items dealing with the Croatian Symposium which were held over, now appear in this issue. In addition, we have a long article by Stuart Jackson on the Mappa Mundi. Despite its length, we feel that this should be printed in its entirety, because the subject matter is of great importance, not only to map lovers and collectors, but to anyone who cares about this country's heritage.

As a result, we have had to hold over several items. They will, of course, appear in our next issue. This does not mean that the stockpile of editorial matter is growing larger. It is not! Ideally, we should have such a stockpile, and that means that we are continually awaiting new typescripts from the membership of the Society.

We always welcome letters to the Editor. Let us have your opinions about the World Map at Hereford. Obviously, members of IMCoS have a vested interest in keeping this fine old treasure in Britain, but wanting to keep it is not enough. This, and similar cartographic treasures must remain in their homeland, and we look forward with interest to reading the views of IMCoS members.
